Subject: A late editorial comment

Sara, this is probably too late so feel free to ignore it. Sometimes when we work on something we focus so much on the substance that we miss some minor details. When looking at the revised Individual Immediate Non-Variable Annuity Contract Standards I've noticed a language problem.

The standard now reads:

"Dividends used to purchase additional income benefits shall be determined using either: ..."

I don't think that the purchase rates are used to determine the dividends. This was meant to say that the income purchased with those dividends should be determined "using either:..".
